Revised company forecast for full-year FY03/21

Sales: JPY103.0bn (versus previous estimate of JPY103.5–105.5bn)

Operating profit: JPY2.5bn (JPY1.2-2.2bn) Recurring profit: JPY2.5bn (JPY1.1-2.1bn)

 $\triangleright$ Net income: JPY750mn (no estimate given previously) EPS: JPY24.73 (no estimate given previously)

At the time of its FY03/20 results announcement on May 8, 2020, the company issued range estimates for FY03/21 sales, operating profit, and recurring profit, explaining that it did not have a good basis at that time on which to make more precise estimates as to how much the pandemic would impact full-year results. Although exactly when the pandemic will come to an end remains to be seen, with the first six months of the fiscal year in the rearview mirror and more data in hand, the company has been able to fine-tune its projections and revise its forecast based on this new information.

The main impetus for the revision at this time is the Dispensing Pharmacy business, where the company had initially expected to see the worst of the pandemic-driven downturn in prescriptions (resulting from cutbacks in patient exams at hospitals) no later than July, with prescriptions then gradually recovering from there. Now, however, the company sees the fallout from the pandemic lingering through the end of the fiscal year and, with this weighing on sales, does not expect the recovery in prescription volumes it is currently seeing to take sales in this area all the way back to where they were in FY03/20. With prescriptions related to the flu, hay fever, and other types of seasonal maladies also expected to be down this year, the company sees consolidated sales for the full year coming in below the lower end of its initial range estimate. In contrast, the company sees full-year earnings coming in above the upper end of its initial range estimate, the credit here going mainly to accelerated efforts to reduce costs, including speeding up the shift to generic drugs (which have the advantage of being cheaper and can be reliably procured) and increasing worker productivity through better shift scheduling and reductions in overtime.

This note is the most recent addition to the full report.
